MSDS STATEMENT

RAE Systems does not supply Material Safety Data Sheets (MSDS's) for colorimetric gas detection tubes because they are not required in the USA. Tubes are considered to be an "article" as defined in 29CFR 1910.1200(c), and thus are exempt from the Hazard Communication Standard.

The hazardous components are listed under Reaction Principle on the data sheet that comes with each box of tubes. For those who are collecting and trying to dispose of large quantities of tubes and are concerned about their status as hazardous waste, RAE Systems can supply more detailed information on the amounts of chemicals in each tube upon request.
